

INFORUM 2005 11th Conference on Professional
Information Resources 24 -26 May Prague

Co-operation is the Key Spolupráce je klíčová

Elizabeth Anne Melrose
North Yorkshire Library and Information Services

Spolupráce je klíčová

Co-operation is the Key

Digitisation and the internet can open up local studies collections in archives, museums and libraries

But these organisations rarely have the funding, the staff time or the experience to promote such projects

Cultural institutions can collaborate and support each other in:

- finding funding opportunities
- ensuring better public access to their individual collections
- increasing public interest in the local history of their communities.

Three projects from North Yorkshire, with partners from differing disciplines, illustrate that Co-operation is the Key.

Unnetie Website

www.northyorks.gov.uk/unnetie

An online archive of 10,000 images showing life in Yorkshire communities, including unique photographs by Bertram Unné (1913-1971)

Partners:

- North Yorkshire County Libraries and Record Office
- Dales Countryside Museum
- Northallerton Local History Society
- Regional Digitisation Consortium
- UK New Opportunities Fund

Rowley Collection

www.rowleycollection.co.uk

An online photographic gallery and community history project – including more than 500 historic photographs of Skipton, North Yorkshire, collected by two friends, both authors and local historians

Partners:

- SkiptonWeb Web Developers
- Skipton Library & Information Service

Reaching the Teacher

by teachers for teachers

A CD-Rom, with 2 case-studies, showing school curriculum material held in the County Libraries and Record Office

Partners:

- North Yorkshire Teachers Group
- North Yorkshire County Libraries and Record Office
- Yorkshire Museums, Libraries and Archives Council

Archives, Museums and Libraries

Digitisation and the internet can open up local studies collections to the public

But these organisations rarely have

- funding
- staff time
- experience

Collaboration and support

- finding funding opportunities
- better access to individual collections
- joint promotion of collections

Unnetie Website

www.northyorks.gov.uk/unnetie

10,000 images showing life in Yorkshire communities online

Partners:

- North Yorkshire County Libraries and Record Office
- Dales Countryside Museum
- Northallerton Local History Society
- Regional Digitisation Consortium
- UK New Opportunities Fund

Back to Results

/

Back to Search

Subject: Hawes
Photo Ref: BU05960A
Photographer: Bertram Unné (1913-1981)
Format: Photograph
Date:

Step Child, Beverley

Rowley Collection

www.rowleycollection.co.uk

An online photographic gallery of 500 historic photos of a town in North Yorkshire

Partners:

- SkiptonWeb Web Developers
- Skipton Library & Information Service

Home

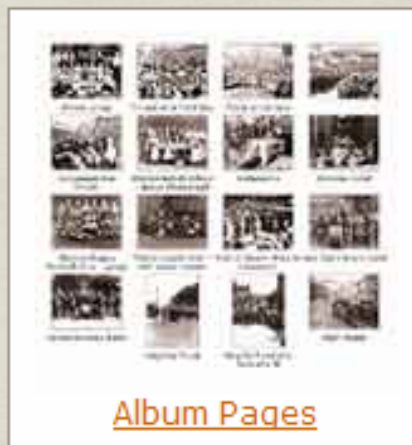

The Rowley Collection website is a tribute to the late Dr Geoffrey Rowley the eminent Skipton historian, who with Mr. Ken Ellwood gathered together these fascinating prints.

This website is an online gallery of over 500 historic old photos of Skipton, fully indexed. You can search the collection for images of:

- Canal
- Coronation
- Galas
- Group photos
- Shops
- Market
- Railways

...or anything you like using the search page.

This website isn't just a gallery, it's also an online community history project. We hope people will send us information about the pictures. Our get involved page has more details. We want this website to be a permanent and growing archive of Skipton local history. View the comments archive to see the latest

For a quick view of 20 images at a time, look through the album pages

Where possible, each photograph has a zoom-in facility that lets you see more detail.

You can buy prints of any of the photos on this website from Skipton Library.

Skipton: demolition of Newmarket Street

Reaching the Teacher by teachers for teachers

CD-Rom with 2 case studies showing school curriculum material held in the County Libraries and Record Office

Partners:

- North Yorkshire Teachers Group
- North Yorkshire County Libraries and Record Office
- Yorkshire Museums , Libraries and Archives Council

also discharged, there being nothing against them to establish a charge of felony.

THE WESLEYAN SCHOOLS.—On Good Friday, the Committee, teachers, and other friends of the Wesleyan Sabbath and Day Schools, held their annual soiree, in the Old Assembly Room. Mr Luke Barlow presided over the gathering, and upwards of 230 individuals partook of tea; after which, suitable addresses were delivered by the Chairman, the Rev. J. P. Lockwood, and Messrs. T. Addyman, A. Ingleson, T. Spetch, and J. Spink, of Scotton. From the report, which was read by Mr F. Addyman, we learn that there is at present 145 scholars in connection with the Sunday School, and upwards of 70 who are in the habit of attending the Day Schools. During the past year, says one of our Correspondents, there had been a falling off in the number of scholars, owing to some slight misunderstanding among the managers, but these greivences have in a great measure worn off, and owing to the indefatigable exertions of Mr Swales, and other friends of the school, it has again assumed its flourishing career and is making good progress.

CONFIRMATION.—The Lord Bishop of Ripon is we understand to hold a Confirmation in 30

April Sessions 1872

CHARGES taken at 13

POLICE STATION between the hours of 15

o'Clock in the 14

Number of Charge.

Taken into Custody by

George Broughton
Apr 23
18

Isabella Griffin
Apr 18
19

Henry Cooper
Apr 35
20

John Finch
Apr 21
21

John Parrill
Apr 19

George Jeffcoat
Apr 21

Joseph Jeffcoat
Apr 29

John Bonnet
Apr 32

Estlin Siddle
Apr 28

Co-operation is the Key

Spolupráce je klíčová

Digitisation and the internet can open up local studies collections in archives, museums and libraries

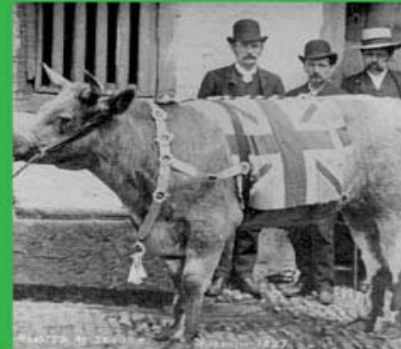

But these organisations rarely have the funding, the staff time or the experience to promote such projects

Cultural institutions can collaborate and support each other in:

- finding funding opportunities
- ensuring better public access to their individual collections
- increasing public interest in the local history of their communities.

Three projects from North Yorkshire, with partners from differing disciplines, illustrate that Co-operation is the Key.

Unnetie Website

www.northyorks.gov.uk/unnetie

An online archive of 10,000 images showing life in Yorkshire communities, including unique photographs by Bertram Unné (1913-1971)

Partners:

- North Yorkshire County Libraries and Record Office
- Dales Countryside Museum
- Northallerton Local History Society
- Regional Digitisation Consortium
- UK New Opportunities Fund

Rowley Collection

www.rowleycollection.co.uk

An online photographic gallery and community history project – including more than 500 historic photographs of Skipton, North Yorkshire, collected by two friends, both authors and local historians

Partners:

- SkiptonWeb Web Developers
- Skipton Library & Information Service

Reaching the Teacher

by teachers for teachers

A CD-Rom, with 2 case-studies, showing school curriculum material held in the County Libraries and Record Office.

Partners:

- North Yorkshire Teachers Group
- North Yorkshire County Libraries and Record Office
- Yorkshire Museums, Libraries and Archives Council

INFORUM 2005 11th Conference on Professional
Information Resources 24 -26 May Prague

Co-operation is the Key Spolupráce je klíčová

Elizabeth Anne Melrose
North Yorkshire Library and Information Services